The Falling Down Dance

Synopsis

Martin's lines are as brief as breath, and cloister us at home, in winter, where the tiny everyday ministrations of love and parenthood are magnified and abundant with meaning. I wanted to tell you something about the shipwreck of fatherhood, of motherhood, the coarse sugar leaving us shook. Soft wreck of the baby greeting each kiss with an open and drooling mouth, reflex. We don't understand heart-blip stuck tipping my finger on the keys, speeding memory of yesterday out the window I'm pushing barely open. Chris Martin is the author of American Music (Copper Canyon, 2007) and Becoming Weather (Coffee House Press, 2011).

A strong collection of poems about the joys, fears, and hopes that come with parenthood. The poet compacts a lot of feeling and truth into very terse lines and the reader gets a sense of the whirlwind ride becoming a parent can be. Sharp and truthful.

Collection of non-rhyming poems/essays that mostly focus upon the author's son. Occasional insight into the human condition and then he resorts to swearing. Every other poem is titled 'Time'. Short sentences.

how we become ourselves, families, parents
